

Preface and Disclaimer

As I sat down to write this story about the Zebra today, I thought about all the things that I know about this animal. And truly, apart from the fact that they hang around with the Wildebeest which I learned from my first book in this Children's series; and that they have stripes – really, what else did I know other than that? Zilch! And that is why I chose to write this animal series, because there are so many animals in the world and do we really know enough about them that if they could talk, would they choose us to be their friend because of our interest in them?

I love the movies connected to Madagascar. The animals in those movies are so typical if they could really talk to us. Their adventures are such a laugh, however, there is a lot of truth in what those movies teach as well. I think the goal of those movies, plus my goals are to enlighten you about various animals that only just exist in today's world, yet hopefully the grown-up human adults realise that unless they change their ways drastically, our grandchildren and certainly our great grandchildren and further down the track will not ever get the opportunity to learn about them unless it is from my pages or the similar pages of others who think like me.

I sit and dream about being able to converse with all the animals so that we could truly be friends and know each other's needs. I think the camp cat understands me, as he seems to respond to my suggestions rather well.

This book will help me learn about the Zebra and also you too. Then by the end of the book we will both know as much about them as each other.

I look forward to the end.

* * * * *

While some of the pictures are my own and all content is my own, please contact me should there be a discretion that you would like me to fix and we can fix it quickly. Links to all outside material are always at the back.

Any quotes from actual text on pages I wanted to include in my references are in the colour blue so that you can distinguish between my thoughts and the thoughts of others who actually provided me with the insight as to what I wanted to include in my own book.

Watch out for more from me in other areas. As usual, my email address for correspondence, criticisms or just some love from you is stories4debbie@gmail.com

Kindest regards

Debbie Nicholson

4th May 2019

